WATERBURY TAXI SERVICE

By GEORGE LEONOF

THERE is no saying to what extent the Indian Prime Minister has been influenced by his recent visit to China — nor in which direction. Mr. Jawaharlal Nehru's public statements have been inconclusive, and if he has spoken glowingly of Peking's economic achievements, his criticism of the political restrictions that have accompanied them were pointed for all their moderation. It is just possible, however, that his declaration this week that India's final aim is the social ownership and control of the means of production, is more than a chronological coincidence, and may have been prompted by what he has seen in China.

MR. Nehru is no newcomer to Socialism, of course. He was first attracted to the Fabian and socialistic ideas while still a student at the political school at different times since then he has expressed his view that the policy of an Indian national government should be one of non-alignment. But if the Chinese tour was not Mr. Nehru's introduction to socialism, it has shown him that the idea worked in an economically backward country with a vast population whose agricultural and industrial problems have much in common with India's. There is little doubt that Mr. Nehru's praise of China's economic gains was sincere, and it is doubtful whether any Asian leader, were he able to look only at the agricultural and industrial progress would not share it. But the Indian leader himself could look beyond, and for all his enthusiasm has stated his preference for the democratic approach to these gains.

NOW that Mr. Nehru has returned to India, the rather confused picture of the construction of a new Asian bloc in opposition to SEATO appears still no solid indication of what was discussed in Peking, but it is believed the visiting statesman might have taken two questions with the Mao Government. Neither directly concern relations between the two countries, but both may considerably affect the peace of the area. These questions involve certain apprehensions that have been felt by Burma and Indonesia, and now steady pillars of the Asian neutralist bloc and strong supporters of the Peking Government's recognition by the United Nations.

THE Burmese Government has not yet extended its effective control over its entire territory and government forces are still engaged in scattered skirmishes with Karen Rebels and Communist insurgents. While the Burmese border with China, Burma has not unreasonably expressed concern, if not at the situation as it stands, then at least at possible developments which might involve her with China. With regard to Indonesia, the Peking Government has been under way between Jakarta and Peking over the position of the two million overseas Chinese who reside in Indonesia, and considers them to be Chinese citizens, though most of them were born in Indonesia and enjoy equal rights. The Indonesian Government considers them citizens of Indonesia, and rejects the conception of dual citizenship. The Indonesian Government is also supplying weapons to an increasingly irritable one.

SATISFACTION OVER TRADE WITH USSR

Foreign Ministry circles have expressed satisfaction at the agreement recently concluded in Moscow for the purchase of Russian fuel against Israeli citrus fruit, which they regard as a further sign of the development in the economic relations between the two countries. So far contracts have been signed for the purchase of 14,000 tons of citrus and one consignment of bananas. Contracts for additional purchases of bananas and Valencia oranges by Russia and fuel by Israel are expected to be discussed in the coming months. This will be the first time that Israel is also supplying lemons to the USSR.

THE NATIONAL COUNCIL FOR THE PREVENTION OF ACCIDENTS

Wide Approval For Bill On Municipalities

Jerusalem Post Knesset Reporter

Despite a discussion that was scarcely less acrimonious than usual, all parties in the Knesset except the Communists voted in favour of the Municipalities Organization Bill yesterday, following a winding-up by the Minister of the Interior, Mr. I. Rokach. The Bill was passed to committee.

Mr. Rokach pointed out that the cooperation between local authorities will be purely of a technical nature. Turning to Mr. E. Genchikovsky (Hapoel Hamizrachi) who had expressed fears for the religious character of Bnei Brak if it were forced into union with Ramat Gan, the Minister said that one glance at a map would make it clear that Bnei Brak must be included in the same sewerage system as the neighbouring town. "If Bnei Brak refused to accept the sanctity of the Sabbath, but for some other reason — to join in the scheme, it will not contribute to the general expenditure. There is a voluntary scheme in operation now, to which Bnei Brak has failed to join. The Minister said that the Ministry has no power to force its Council to do so. I think that every enquiry commission would rule that Bnei Brak must now accept its share in the sewerage system to the Yarkon, and must connect its pipes with existing sewers in the area."

No Direct Taxes

This consideration applied to other similar projects, he said. Cooperation would be enforced only after careful investigation, and there was no intention to impose direct taxes in this connection: where Local Councils were required to join in any scheme it would be left to them to raise the funds within their normal budget.

A stir of welcome was caused in the Knesset when Mr. Emil Habibi (Communist) rose to make his maiden speech in Hebrew, which was clear and well-modulated although he read from notes. The Speaker, Mr. I. Sprinberg, later constituted him as a member of the Knesset. Mr. Habibi attacked the Bill as destroying the independence of the elected local councils and placing all authority in the hands of the Ministry of the Interior. He enlarged on the new law as a violation of the Constitution, with the victory going to Mr. Rokach.

Limited Applications

Mr. E. Lebelov (General Zionists) asked that the scheme not be extended to projects on whose character all were agreed, and not used, for instance, to establish secondary schools, which might be undesirable to neighbouring councils. Mr. M. Erem (Le'Ahbut Ha'Avoda) suggested that the powers of compulsion granted to the Minister of the Interior by the Bill would make cooperation between the elected local councils more difficult and not easier. He also made a special appeal that the Arab local councils should not be forgotten in the application of the law. The Minister of the Interior, Mr. C. Magari-Cohen (Herut), argued that the bill could be applied to the Government's development, and force local authorities to pay for new roads and similar works.

Private Members Bill On Name of Kibbutz

The shortest Private Members' Bill in the history of the Knesset, "That the settlement 'Netzer' shall in future be marked on the map as 'Netzer-Sereni'" was circulated yesterday, signed by 33 Members. Most of the signatories belong to Mapai, but the General Zionists, Hapoel Hamizrachi, Mapam and Le'Ahbut Ha'Avoda are also represented. An explanation attached to the draft bill points out that Netzer, originally known as Kibbutz Buchanani, had been dedicated to the name of Netzer-Sereni in memory of the Prime Minister's Office had refused to approve this name on the general principle that only Hebrew words could be used, and had recommended 'Netzer-Haim'. This had not been accepted, as the name Haim was of course, connected first of all with Dr. Weizmann, and others, and a large number of places already bore this name in some form.

It is also pointed out that a number of non-Hebrew place names commemorate other persons, and that Sereni's memory is well worthy of a place among these.

UK Envoy Presents Credentials To President in Capital

Jerusalem Post Reporter

The new British Ambassador to Israel, Mr. John W. Nicholls, presented his full diplomatic credentials to President Ben-Zvi yesterday morning. The ceremony took place in Beit Hanassi, the President's residence, and was attended by the Prime Minister and Foreign Minister, Mr. Moshe Sharett, and other senior government officials. Mr. Nicholls, who is accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Nicholls, and a small party, arrived in Jerusalem yesterday morning. He is the first British Ambassador to Israel since the establishment of the State. The ceremony was a formal one, with Mr. Nicholls reading his letter of credence to the President. The President then presented him with a gift, a traditional one for a new ambassador. The ceremony was held in a room with a large chandelier and a portrait of the President on the wall. The atmosphere was cordial and respectful.

The Prime Minister and Foreign Minister, Mr. Moshe Sharett, was the first to arrive for the ceremony at Beit Hanassi, above which were hoisted the President's standard and the Union Jack. The Ambassador, the first envoy of the Western Powers to present his credentials in the Capital, arrived a few minutes later, preceded by police outriders. Mr. Nicholls, who was accompanied by the Charge d'Affaires, Mr. Arthur Moore, the First Secretary and the Service Attaché, was received by the Chief of Protocol, Dr. M. Simon. He reviewed a guard of honour, and then, under the baton of Rav-Seren Shalom Riklis, played "God save the Queen."

Stresses Close Ties

In presenting his letters of credence, Mr. Nicholls said he was particularly glad that his first appointment as Ambassador should bring him to a country with which his own had so many close ties.

Nicholls Made 'Honest'

Representatives of the Government, the University and National Library and members of the Diplomatic Corps were among a large gathering at the new and spacious premises of the British Council in Tel Aviv which were opened with a cocktail party yesterday evening. Introduced by Mr. C. V. S. Lake, representative of the Council in Israel, Mr. John W. Nicholls, the new British Ambassador, welcomed many guests with a reference to the same morning in Jerusalem which, he said smilingly, had made him "honest."

Jordan Guilty Of Armistice Violation

An Israel resolution finding that on November 1, in the Megiddo district, Sergeant Blum of the Israel Border Police was shot by a Jordanian soldier, was adopted yesterday at an emergency meeting of the Israel-Jordan Mixed Armistice Commission. The resolution further decided that this act constituted a breach of Article III, paragraph 3 of the General Armistice Agreement and called upon Jordan to take firm measures to prevent the recurrence of such acts.

The Israel resolution was voted on paragraph by paragraph. The first paragraph, finding that Jordan National Guards had crossed into Kibbutz Salim, Megiddo, on November 1, was not adopted because of the Chairman's abstention. The remainder of the resolution was adopted by a vote of the Israel delegation and the Chairman, the Jordan delegation voting against.

A Jordan counter-resolution terminating the firing across the Demarcation line into Jordan in the Megiddo area by Israel security forces was adopted by the Mixed Armistice Commission. The resolution was adopted paragraph by paragraph.

A military patrol on Monday night apprehended a Jordanian infiltrator with 45 goats. It is believed that the goats are being smuggled to Israel.

Arab Plaint to UN On Credentials Issue

NEW YORK, Wednesday (INA). — The six Arab League countries that are members of the U.N. today complained to the U.N. Secretary-General, Mr. Dag Hammarskjöld, against the U.S. and British Government's decision to allow their new Ambassadors to present their credentials in Jerusalem. The complaint is part of the concerted Arab bloc drive here to influence both the U.S. and Britain against implied recognition of Jerusalem as Israel's capital.

Want P.C.C. Action

The Arab delegates requested Mr. Hammarskjöld not only to circulate the letter stating all U.N. members but also to bring it to the attention of the Palestine Conciliation Commission "for action." Presumably they intend that the P.C.C. should notify the U.S. and Britain that their actions are incompatible with previous U.N. resolutions on the internationalization of Jerusalem.

British MP Urges Larger British Force at Akaba

LONDON, Wednesday (INA). — Another individual member of the House of Commons has urged that the British force at Akaba be increased. The Egyptian army as a whole has little practice in the combined use of the various arms of the service, Mr. Morgan Phillips Price, Labour M.P., said in an article in the Manchester Guardian newspaper. He said that it is not yet decided whether the Egyptian troops will continue with their German instructors, but there is reason to think that British instructors will again be requested by the authorities. He said that under the new regime the Egyptian soldiers showed a "marked" interest in modern warfare, of course, another matter.

Rifa'i as Observer

NEW YORK Wednesday (INA). — Abdul Munir Rifa'i, Jordan Ambassador to the U.S., notified the U.N. Secretary-General today that he wants to accompany the Arab delegation to the Palestine Conciliation Commission tomorrow afternoon. It is expected that Rifa'i will be allowed to act as observer also in the General Assembly when it takes up the Arab refugee problem is discussed.

York Archbishop Proposes Change In Israel Borders

LONDON, Wednesday. — The Archbishop of York, Dr. Cyril Garbett, speaking in the House of Lords tonight urged the government to press the U.N. either to patrol the Israel-Jordan frontier, "adequately" or "make another attempt to see that a more reasonable frontier is settled."

He said the frontier "cannot be justified either by geographical, strategic, historical or common-sense reasons" being simply "an imaginary line where I understand the forces cease fighting when the truce came."

He said it was important that nothing should be done to prejudice the possibility of sacred places in the Holy Land being returned to the Jewish people and elsewhere in that area being put under international authority.

He hoped that the presentation of credentials by the British and American Ambassadors in Jerusalem did not mean that the British Government had given up the principle laid down by the U.N. of internationalizing Jerusalem.

Reading, Minister of State for Foreign Affairs, said the Anglo-American-French tripartite agreement was still in force and would be signed today as when it was first signed. He said that if the conclusion of a Suez agreement had been made conditional upon the passage of Israeli ships through the Canal or on any other condition unfavourable to Egypt, it would have meant the immediate suspension of negotiations by Egypt.

French in Algeria Seal Off Tunisian Frontier

BATNA, Algeria, Wednesday (Reuters). — French troops today threw an armoured shield down the southern reaches of the Algerian-Tunisian frontier to stem the infiltration of Tunisian bandits bound for the rebel-infested Aurès region.

French Socialists Cool to Gov't Bid

PARIS, Wednesday. — The Socialist Party leadership came out strongly for the Western European Union and rearmament today and powerfully increased the chances of ratification of the Paris agreements by the National Assembly next month.

The Secretary-General of the party, M. Guy Mollet, told delegates at an extraordinary congress tonight that "we must face the reality that because above all we must avoid allowing France to be isolated."

M. Mollet said that Socialist participation in the Government was not conceivable "unless reforms are made in the near future to improve the condition of workers." The Socialists will take a final decision on the Premier's invitation to join the government tomorrow evening. But he admitted that under the present Parliament it would be difficult to imagine a Premier who would be closer to the Socialists than M. Mendes-France.

Meanwhile the Government ran into difficulties tonight as the clause-by-clause debate of the 1955 budget bill — which the Socialists consider disappointingly orthodox — got under way in the National Assembly. The Assembly overwhelmingly rejected a proposed 12,000 franc a year wage increase for post office workers as insufficient. The vote had no major significance since the Government can propose a second reading with a modified clause to make it a question of confidence at the end of the debate. But it showed that M. Mendes-France would have a difficult time in getting the budget through Parliament. (UP, Reuters)

Ike in Favour Of Fighter Escorts

WASHINGTON, Wednesday. — President Eisenhower told his news conference today that the U.S. should provide fighter escorts to protect American military planes on proper missions near risky areas and that he personally approved the plan. He said the U.S. felt it had every right to be where it was but he said the case was not clear-cut because of Russian claims to small islands nearby where the postwar boundary had never been defined.

The Russian attitude in this case, he said, is somewhat more conciliatory than in former incidents, but added he could say no more because he did not know if the last Note on the subject had been released. He also denied reports that the U.S. had ordered the U.S. Navy to bar Nationalist attacks on the Chinese mainland, and said the U.S. does not give orders to its partners though it constantly consults with them. Strikes in Lebanon After Beirut Fire

Beirut, Wednesday. — The two largest cities in the Lebanon after Beirut, held a full day's general strike on Tuesday to protest the mass arrests which followed the outbreak of Sunday night's fire in the capital. Police and army units stood by to prevent demonstrations and the Government banned the carrying of firearms throughout the country for fear of clashes. Meanwhile, the death toll yesterday rose to 28 as another five victims of fire died. The fire started during a torchlight procession marking the birthday of Mohammed.

Convicted Terrorist Freed from Jail

Avraham Mendel, 38, one of the 15 terrorists imprisoned in August 1953, under the Prevention of Terrorism Ordinance was freed yesterday after the Minister of Defence, Mr. P. Lavon decided to reduce his three year sentence. Mendel had been found guilty of transmitting secret military information to an underground organization while still on active army service. He and two of the twelve others who were sentenced had claimed that they had been influenced by Mr. Menachem Beigin, M.K., and leader of the Herut party, and his circle who said that the country's youth faced the choice either of obeying the law or going underground.
